

All writers know that with no presence in the market place and with an unsolicited manuscript, the chances of having their work acknowledged by a publisher are slim. The only other option besides collecting rejection notices like baseball cards is to employ the services of a literary agency. Literary agents are book-marketing experts with the sole objective to assist writers in turning that unsolicited manuscript into a cash cow and making a name for the writer in the market place. To assist, editio online offers all the services of a literary agency on a larger scale and with additional benefits.

editio online offers:

- an opportunity to make money from works straight away
- exposure to millions of readers world wide
- establish an instantaneous readership and following
- develop a track record that can then be presented to a hard publisher
- personalised marketing of each publication
- editing services
- publication evaluation
- professional advice and online assistance

editio online consists of a team of highly skilled literary professionals who can take a writer's work to the next level and get it making money for them NOW. editio online's editing services and publication evaluations ensure a writer's publication is of highest literary standard when it is presented to the world.

editio online offers three editing options:

- proof reading - a general clean up of the text checking spelling, capitalisation, punctuation and minor grammatical errors, formatting and typos
- full edit - an examination of style, sentence structure, word choice, organisation, repetitiveness, clarity and sense, rhythm, phrasing and grammatical choices
- rewrite - look for loose ends, poor characterisation, plot consistency, structural choices, momentum

Pricing of editio online's editing and evaluation services differ depending on the length of publication so please contact the team today at editor@editio-online.com to obtain an obligation free quote.
